Army Engineer Says Charges
Against Fort McArthur in California Are Unfounded

Major E. S. Abernathy, C. A. C. U. S. A., acting inspector-general of the Western Department, conducted in Los Angeles a few days ago an investigation concerning the alleged faulty concrete work at Fort McArthur. He lasted himself two days taking depositions and conducting a minute inspection of the fortifications at the harbor. While considerable secrecy attends the whole affair, Major E. S. Abernathy, U. S. A., local United States district engineer, admitted last night that several men who once worked on the fortifications and for various reasons were discharged or transferred to other departments, have filed charges with department headquarters at San Francisco and with officials at Washington, alleging that Junior Engineer Glen A. Haverort, who is in charge of construction, passed faulty cement work.

Major Pillsbury said the whole affair is mostly a repeat tempest.

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with the cement work at Fort McArthur," he declared. "About August 1, following the completion of one of the mortar batteries, I decided to make a change in the personnel on the work. I secured the services of Mr. Haverort, who has an enviable reputation and who superintended much of the cement work on the Panama Canal fortifications, and placed him in charge."

"The work he has done is of high order and with the exception of a couple of rough spots at a corner, which was chopped out and replaced almost as soon as the forms were removed—there has been nothing to criticize."

The complaint about the work was filed August 26 last and was made by Junior Engineer M. C. Wilkinson and others. Mr. Wilkinson, who was removed from the construction work on the fort about August 1 and transferred to the designing department, was granted leave of absence without pay simultaneously with the filing of the complaint.

According to the usual procedure, Major Abernathy's report and recommendation will be made direct to department headquarters, and will then be submitted to the war department. Until the action of the officials is announced the nature of the report will not be made public.

Major Pillsbury's statement of conditions at Fort McArthur were borne out yesterday when about eighty members of the local engineers' and architects' associations, on their annual outing, visited the fortifications and were outspoken in their praise of the quality and magnitude of the work. The visitors were guests of Major Pillsbury during the tour of inspection.

They went to the harbor in automobiles at noon, and before visiting the fort saw the work under way at the municipal docks and ate lunch in municipal warehouse No. 1.

NEW SUBMARINE TO RULE OLD OCEAN

One Man Diver Invented By Californian Makes Thirty-five
Knots An Hour

A one man submarine driven by a 110-horsepower gasoline engine and capable of making thirty-five knots per hour submerged, according to the inventor, has been constructed and is undergoing tests at Alamitos Bay, under the direction of M. J. Trumble, president of the Trumble Refining Company. The novel craft, which Mr. Trumble says will completely revolutionize modern sea warfare, is twenty-five feet in length, seven feet and eight inches in depth in the center and but twenty-eight inches in width at its broadest section. It is pointed at both ends and tapers to a knife-like edge at the bottom. Its displacement is approximately one and three-quarters tons.

The secret of the high speed is said to lie in the design and in the gasoline motor, which exhausts into a special trap under water. The principle of this underwater exhaust is considered so valuable that Mr. Trumble says he has not patented it, and will not.

Instead of the usual method of submerging by opening intake valves and flooding the submerging chambers, Mr. Trumble's submarine submerges by means of a vertical propeller located under the bottom. Horizontal planes on each side, fore and aft, are used as stabilizers and also assist in submerging.

"These little boats," said Mr. Trumble yesterday, "will mark the passing of the heavy dreadnoughts. Equipped with two special torpedoes of my own design, one man can sink the largest ship afloat and in doing it, he is almost certain to escape unharmed. When the submarine is moving at thirty miles an hour with but a twenty-eight inch surface exposed, no gunner can hope to damage the little boat by gunfire, and that is all the submarine has to fear."

Mr. Trumble says he can construct these submarines for less than $5000 each. They are so small that six of them can be loaded into an ordinary box car. He expects to dispose of his patent outright to some government, preferably, he says, the United States. He stated last night that a representative of an eastern syndicate has been watching the tests at Alamitos Bay and that negotiations for the sale of the patent are pending.

SAN FRANCISCO'S CITY HALL OPENS

Magnificent Structure One of Finest of Its Kind in United States

Word has been received from the mainland that the new city hall in San Francisco was formally opened last week when the first session of the board of supervisors was held in that building.

The new building is one of the finest of the kind in the United States and several years were required for its construction. It occupies a site diagonally opposite the big auditorium which was the center of conventional life at the Exposition last year. With the auditorium and other buildings to be erected it will form a part of the beautiful civic center that has been planned for the Bay city.

In the new structure most of the city and county officials located in San Francisco will be housed. It also contains a number of vaults and rooms that will be used for archives as well as all the superior courts.

The highest point of the dome of the new building is six feet higher than the Capitol at Washington.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON ARMY OFFICER

Drunken Cook of Louisiana National Guard Disfigures His Face With Cleaver

Word has just been received here of the assault made recently upon Capt. Ralph B. Lister, infantry, detailed in the Quartermaster Department, by a drunken cook of the First Louisiana National Guard Regiment, at San Benito, Texas. The assault occurred during the training of the militia regiment and while Captain Lister, who is camp quartermaster at San Benito, was inspecting the train and its equipment.

Captain Lister had just entered the kitchen car, and his passage was blocked by the crowding of the car by enlisted men waiting to be served their noon meal. In his efforts to pass through the crowd Captain Lister ran foul the cook, who was intoxicated. The cook attacked Captain Lister with a steel cleaver, striking the officer on the left side of the jaw and the neck. The wound was about four inches long and deep enough to sever the facial artery, causing a great loss of blood. At first it was thought that the jugular vein had been severed, but later it was found that this had been missed by a narrow margin.

Captain Lister's wounds will not prove serious, in the opinion of the medical officers at that station, but he will wear an ugly scar for the rest of his life. The cook was thrown in the guardhouse at San Benito and will face a court-martial.

Captain Lister is well known here. He came to Oahu with the First Infantry, served at Schofield Barracks for several months, and was later detailed in the Quartermaster Department, being assistant to the department quartermaster in Honolulu. He was in direct charge of transportation in Honolulu for many months.

HONOLULU MAN NOT IMPLICATED IN SUIT

The warrant of arrest for Sam Pupui, the Honolulu land dealer, who was charged with being implicated in an alleged land fraud by which Dr. J. H. Raymond was said to have been bilked last week, has been withdrawn in accordance with action taken in the district court yesterday morning, says last Friday's Maui News of Wailuku. Doctor Raymond, who swore to the warrant, states that it was erroneous to have it appear that Pupui was implicated.

In withdrawing the warrant of arrest, County Attorney Revinus, with District Attorney and Sheriff Crowell present, appeared in court and made the following statement:

In the case of Sam Pupui, W. E. K. Mahini and M. Mahini, the warrant of arrest was issued on the twenty-first day of September. Since the filing of complaint and issuance of warrant it has been discovered that the only evidence is in the hands of the prosecution against defendants, and the county attorney instructed the sheriff not to serve the warrant on the defendant Sam Pupui, pending further investigation. At this time I will ask that the proceedings be discontinued so far as Sam Pupui is concerned, and ask that Sheriff Crowell be instructed not to serve the warrant on Sam Pupui.

Judge McKay then said: "The court upon the showing made by the county attorney or prosecuting officer in this case, will grant the request made and instruct the sheriff not to serve the warrant upon Sam Pupui, the warrant now being in the hands of the court returned as unserved in the case of Sam Pupui."

W. E. K. Mahini and H. Mahini were arrested last week. Their preliminary hearing has been passed until October 12.

William Lishman, who fractured a leg recently when he was run over by an automobile outside of the Seaside Hotel, Wailuku, is doing nicely at the Queen's Hospital. It will be two months or more, however, before Mr. Lishman will be able to leave the hospital.

FAVORITES DEFEATED IN SENSATIONAL FINISHES

Army Loses Fast Polo Game By Half
Point and Satisfax Is Nosed Out
In Homestretch By Oneonta

(From Sunday Advertiser).

PROPHETS and their followers suffered rude shocks at Kapihani Park yesterday afternoon, for both in the race and the polo game the favorites lost in the last moment of exciting contests. Satisfax ran a beautiful race, but yielded to Oneonta in the home stretch, while the Army which played a splendid hard and fast game of polo and had a commanding lead at one time, lost to the fighting Kauai four in the last minute—almost the last second—of the final chukkur, the score standing at 4 to 3.

When Oneonta after a driving race from the drop of the barrier took the lead as the horses flashed by the five eighth pole, there was a deep sigh from the crowds. Satisfax, a two to one favorite had been nosed out by superior stamina of the bay horse.

It was a hard race from the start. Satisfax, the black mare, was a favorite with the "fancy" and the crowd, and she took the rail as the barrier fell and went right to the front amid the yells of the crowd. Johnny Carroll, who was riding Oneonta for the owner, Mrs. Walter E. Dillingham began to urge the whip at once, and pressed the mare to the top of her speed to keep her lead.

Le. A. K. Palmer, who was riding Satisfax for the owner L. E. D. Hoyle, made a splendid losing ride. He kept the mare in his stride with whip and hand and knee but at the five eighth pole he could do no more and began to ride rapidly. Oneonta, who had been gaining steadily for some time, moved up and took the rail, and soon day light began to show between the tail of the island horse and the nose of the mare. At the finish Oneonta was a good length in the lead. The time on the heavy track was 1:43.

In the fatal moment of the polo game Jay Gould took the ball down the field, and by a series of fast dribbling strokes drove it squarely between the posts of the goal for the winning point. Indeed Gould's hard drives, beautiful "saves" and generally consistent work in the game pulled the game out of the fire for the Red and White on more than one nearly fatal occasion, and made him the hero of the day's play.

Perhaps no polo game ever witnessed on Kapihani field, or any polo field for that matter, had a more dramatic finish. At the end of the first half the teams were tied 1½ all, but the Service men took the lead in the fifth chukkur, and increased it until the score stood 4½ to 1½ in their favor. The Kauai men came back to the line in the eighth period, with the determination of fighters on their faces and by hard playing, desperate riding, and excellent team work, came up from the rear, overtook the Army, and won by one-half point.

A ninth inning rally with the losers one point behind, the bases full and a Ty Cobb at bat; or a football game with two yards to go for a touchdown and thirty seconds left to play; or a horse race with three of the ponies abreast coming down the home stretch; none of these could have brought the quicker of spectators to their feet any more than did the Kauai players when they started their eighth chukkur drive.

The result yesterday was so surprising that it left the crowds in the grandstands, and the spectators in the motors along the side board, in a sort of daze.

Every man on both teams played splendidly, but the work of Jay Gould and Lieutenant Beard stands out as features.

Gould was closely followed by Malina for honors. The plucky Hawaiian rode off his man in good fashion, and his hitting and saves kept the score from reaching a greater lead. Gould proved beyond a doubt that he is as clever with a mallet as with a racket. Time and again he sliced the ball out of danger or sent the little white sphere down the field with true strokes. Charles Rice did not play so spectacular a game, but his consistent work was responsible to a large extent for his team coming up in the last period. James Spaulding was ever present and engaged in every mixup.

It had been said that many of the Kauai ponies had just been taken from the plow and the pasture, but it did not seem to affect their playing. The speed shown by some of Gould's mounts was a revelation, and the pony he rode in the seventh period should have been on the track in the sweepstakes.

Army Team Has Jinx

The Army men seem to carry a hoopoo of some sort with them. They should have been Oahu, but they did not. They with a good lead over Maui, they looked like sure winners, but were forced to defeat in the extra chukkur. And yesterday people were ready to leave in the seventh period and concede the Schofield players the game; but Fortune is unruly, and the dame willed that the service men should lose.

Lieutenant Haverkamp played again, despite the rumor that he would retire after last Saturday's game. His work was good, but not up to the standard displayed in the early season. Lieutenant Herr was a big factor in the Army gaining the lead, for he played a hard game. Lieutenant Hoyle fought and rode the same game he is noted for. But the Army ministry and the man who is always to be feared in polo circles is Lieutenant Beard. He scored most for his team and used the best mallet.

The game was slow during the first three chukkurs. Each team made two goals during the first half, but each received a penalty which left the score 1½ all at the end of the fourth period.

When the eight men returned to the field at the beginning of the fifth period it was plain to be seen that something was going to happen. The Army started off with a rush, and after thirty seconds of play Beard scored for the Army. On the next toss-in Beard again received the ball after a series of plays and put it between the posts for the second score of the period. The service men were now two points ahead, and encouraged by their success, began playing the harder, and in the sixth period made another goal.

On the toss-out at the beginning of the seventh period the Kauai team got the ball for the first time and began to show life. They fought and rode hard. In this period the teams were about even and no scoring was done. When the bell sounded at the close of this chukkur the score stood 4 to 1½ in favor of the Army.

Tables Turn In Eighth

Then came the surprise of the day. The Red and White came back in the eighth with a rush and after two minutes of play Rice scored for Kauai. But even this did not cause much excitement, until Malina sent the sphere between the Army posts for another score which put the Garden Islanders up half point behind. With four minutes left to play the Kauai men and the Army four started in to do real battle. Gould got the ball in mid-field and unassisted, dribbled it with sure strokes all the way to the goal for the winning score. It was too sudden to be realized and it took fully a minute for the spectators to understand that Kauai had really won the game. With only a minute left to play the Army could not score, although they made every effort and the game ended with the score 4½ to 4 in favor of Kauai.

The summary:
Kauai: James Spaulding, No. 1; John Malina, No. 2; Charles Rice, No. 3; Jay Gould, No. 4.

OLYMPIC CLUB AND CALIFORNIA PLAY TO TIE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
SAN FRANCISCO, October 1.—The game for which the Coast football fans have been waiting with such eagerness resulted in a tie yesterday between the Olympic club and the University of California. Both teams played hard, but neither was able to solve the defense of their opponents. After a grueling match the game ended with the score 0 to 0.

The Inter-Island steamer Mauna Loa, in from Maui late Saturday evening, brought nineteen cabin passengers. Cargo included fifty-five bags of corn, thirty of charcoal, ten of potatoes, and nine barrels of wine. Fair weather outbound and inbound was made.

CHICAGO, October 2.—The Boston Red Sox clinched the pennant in the American league yesterday when the Chicago White Sox lost the first game of a double-header to Cleveland.

The preliminaries were marked by much squabbling between the referees and the opponents.
Miyake will meet Williams of the Twenty-fifth in a bout in the near future.

The Red Sox play a four game series at home beginning today with Philadelphia.

The National race now takes the center of the baseball stage. The crucial test comes today. Brooklyn plays New York at home, while Philadelphia meets Boston on their own grounds.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 2.—Portland is creeping up on the Tigers. Yesterday the Beavers took a double-header from them. The collar Oaks put up a hard fight, but lost both games to the Seals by a close score.

The double-header at Los Angeles between the Angels and the Bees was postponed.

RACE-COURSE ONLY WAY TO TELL HORSES

The race-course furnishes the only means by which the speed, soundness, stamina and courage of horses may be tested and the blood which carries these qualities perpetuated. In times it does not seem so very important that these tests should be made, though they have given the British rider and the American driver a horse which surpasses all others in ability to get there and back. But in times of war the value of the tests which search out and diffuse the blood of goers and stayers is clearly apparent. Sheridan's ride could not have been made on a cold-blooded horse, and more than one critical fight has depended on the equine blood that was in it. The day of the horse's usefulness in war has not passed, as the events of the present year show. When the time of trial comes the blood of the horse will count, and it may count more than we can now realize. The abuses of racing all good men deplore, but these need not so narrow our vision that we fail to see its possible benefits in the improvement of horses.

CUNNINGHAM-TODD

Miss Sallie Todd, of Hilo became the bride of Thomas Cunningham, of Honolulu, on Sunday evening last at the home of her brother, George Todd, says the Hawaii Herald of last Friday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. L. Deane and the popular young woman was given away by her father, Supervisor William Todd. There were many intimate friends of the bride present and they all made a merry party. The happy couple left for Honolulu on the Mauna Kea last Monday afternoon.

Miss Sallie Todd, now Mrs. Cunningham, is a most popular young lady and one with whom almost everybody on the Island of Hawaii has talked at times. "Miss Sallie," as she was universally known, held down the job of chief operator at the Hawaii Telephone office and also was the chief operator over the line that brings the daily wireless news from Kawaihae. She has been ever obliging and she has a host of friends around the island. Now that an election is looming up in the near future, the loss of Miss Todd's services to the telephone company will be keenly felt. It was Miss Todd who so accurately, at every election time, caught the figures from the different centers throughout the country and it was she also who always could be relied upon to untangle any muddle that might temporarily tie things up. All Hilo and the whole county, besides, wish Mrs. Thomas Cunningham all the good wishes in the world.

WRESTLING BOUT WON BY MIYAKE

Japanese Champion Throws the Island Catch-As-Catch-Can
Man in Straight Falls

Taro Miyake, the champion of the world at Ju-jitsu, defeated Frank Kanne in the best two out of three trials at the Skating Rink last night. Miyake had little trouble with the island champion, and the fight fell went to the Japanese star in four minutes with a neck hold.

Kanne grew wise after the first fall, and stayed away from the dreadful neck hold. The Ju-jitsu wrestler had much difficulty in getting the next fall, and twenty-five minutes elapsed before he was able to make the Hawaiian give up, by using an arm hold.

This style of wrestling is very different from the kind generally seen, and the holds and bars used by the Japanese were a revelation. Miyake weighed 170 pounds, while the catch-as-catch-can artist tipped the scales at 200 pounds.

Kanne put up a good fight, but was unable to withstand the skillful holds of the Japanese.

The first preliminary was won by Fuji from E. Alexander of Company B. The second preliminary was a draw between Private Lively and Kitayama.

The preliminaries were marked by much squabbling between the referees and the opponents.

Miyake will meet Williams of the Twenty-fifth in a bout in the near future.

NOVEL SYSTEM IN VOGUE BY GOLFERS

(By The Associated Press.)
PASADENA, California, September 24.—Bungalows to be erected upon the grounds of the Altadena Country Club, for the accommodation of guests who are such enthusiastic golfers that they dislike to take the time to journey between the links and their hostelry for meals and sleep, will be ready for the opening of the winter season, according to an announcement by the management of three fashionable Pasadena hotels.

The cottages will be rented for home-keeping purposes, or those who desire may occupy them for sleeping quarters and have their meals and other domestic service rendered from the hotel, three miles distant.
It is planned to construct fourteen of the bungalows. A motor bus line will be maintained between the hotels and the bungalows.
